Summary

Listing price is very flexible and the owners are open to creative offers with back end structure.

A delicious, healthy sparkling tea that is high in nutrients and low in sugar. The award winning product has been well received, but the company has not been able to expand distribution to profitable levels yet. They are looking for a venture capital partner, private equity or strategic buyer that can plug the product into an existing distribution network.

Started in 2013 by upcycling coffee leaves into a delicious tea. Coffee leaves have long been known in many cultures for their delicious, smooth taste and health benefits. However, they are not widely used today. This brilliant use of excess capacity extends coffee farmers seasons to help the farmers and their workers turn their 3 month season into a year round operation and income.

The product has won multiple awards for taste. It has only 4 grams of sugar per can, it's high in anti oxidants, and has 35 mg of caffeine per can (similar to green tea).

They have distribution in many North American stores and Amazon.

This is an opportunity for investors looking to expand distribution of an amazing, healthy product, or a strategic buyer looking to expand their offerings and capitalize on a delicious, healthy new alternative drink that has tremendous potential.
